

PEACE SQUAD

Better today than yesterday.

WHY PEACE SQUAD?

Are you looking to build a more caring, cohesive, and collaborative community at your middle school while also building student leaders? Then Roots and Wings' Peace Squad is for you!

Peace Squad equips students with the ability to turn judgement into curiosity, to embrace differences and to build community in their school from the ground up. The program supports teachers through easy, meaningful techniques to incorporate into the classroom.

WHAT IS PEACE SQUAD?

PS is a six part skill building program designed for middle schoolers. We give students the opportunity to learn, integrate, and practice five key skills that allow them to be effective leaders in their schools, homes, and communities. The goal is to inspire a cultural and behavior shift that will carry through to high school and beyond.

HOW DOES PEACE SQUAD WORK?

Roots & Wings facilitators work with a diverse group of students identified by teachers and administrators. The program uses real life examples and open conversation to build skills of; cooperation, communication, expressing feelings, appreciating diversity, and conflict transformation. The skills are reinforced through activities to be done at home and in the classroom. Peace Squad leaders then apply their skills to design and implement a school wide project aimed at building a stronger, more positive and inclusive community.
