CRITICAL CAMPUS CONVERSATIONS

Individual voices coming together for collective understanding.

Critical Campus Conversations (CCC) is a unique dialogue training that incorporates reflection on personal triggers and how facilitators can overcome them. Participants learn a framework for having a constructive conversation that encourages people to participate fully, listen actively, and enhance empathy.

How does it work?

- Roots & Wings Training Facilitators lead 6+ hours of activities that promote connection, curiosity and caring in difficult discussions
- Participants learn the definition of dialogue and the skills to reach mutual understanding
- We supply all materials needed for CCC and offer ongoing consultation before, during and after

What are people saying?

I appreciate the thoughtful work Roots & Wings does. I find it helpful to be able to consult about our campus' climate as that information can be helpful context for them to have when providing a training. They make themselves available for these important conversations and can better tailor the training and discussions to fit our needs.
